

Become a PARTNER FOR CHANGE

The Negede Woitto have come together to change their community.

Join them, sign up and become a Partner for Change. No other commitment is necessary — receive our twice-yearly newsletter and follow their progress.

Tesfaw volunteers his time to help with community conversations.

Tell your friends about Partners for Change by passing on the newsletter or just tell them about our approach. Or you might ask your school, church or local library to put up display material.

Assassa, an elderly grandmother, is looking after her orphan grandchildren.

You could help the Woitto find other carers for orphan children by donating or fundraising—just £120 (£10 a month) provides long-term support for an orphan child.

Zamet works as a co-ordinator giving her time in return for a minimal salary

You can enable the employment of more co-ordinators like Zamet by providing the salary of £15 per month.

Zebanay spends his days helping the Woitto to help themselves

We can provide speakers, presentations, photographic exhibitions, leaflets and other materials. Maybe your friends will get inspired and want to do something positive in their own community. We are happy to discuss this with you.

These are just a few ideas. Every step, however small, brings us further down the road to lasting change. Our experience shows that becoming a Partner for Change can lead to changes in our own awareness and to new projects within our own communities. Our partners in the Negede Woitto community are volunteering their time and energy — join them and become a PARTNER FOR CHANGE
